HAWAIIAN ISLANDS HUMPBACK WHALE NATIONAL MARINE SANCTUARY HOSTS FILM “Nā Kupu Mana‘olana: Seeds of Hope”

The Sanctuary Lecture Series will show the film “Nā Kupu Mana‘olana: Seeds of Hope” produced by the Hawai‘i Rural Development Council, and introduced by community activist and organizer Puanani Burgess. For over 1,000 years the people of Hawai‘i produced enough food to support an estimated population of one million. Today, 85% of food supplies are imported and if current trends continue, Hawai‘i’s last agricultural lands will be gone by 2040. Can Hawai‘i change course in time? This film introduces local farmers attempting to initiate new ideas that can solve Hawai‘i’s food crisis, inspire a world to become more sustainable, and to nurture the land that feeds us.

WHEN: Wednesday, November 27, 2013 from 6:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m.
